

An important job for the millennium

You may be the key to a successful
Census 2000 in your community.

As the millennium begins, our country needs an accurate count of the people who live here. Some of our communities, such as gated communities and secure buildings, have been hard to reach in the past. We need residents to help open the doors to these communities. Become Census takers and perform an important public service for Census 2000.

The job requires confidentiality and a minimum commitment of 20 hours per week, during hours when people in your community are home. This is a temporary job lasting approximately four to six weeks, starting in the spring. It pays well in many ways. Census takers earn the respect of their community and a competitive hourly wage.

We need your help to take the Census.
